Claims are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

The term "and" is missing in the Markush terminology of claims 24 and 43 between the terms "hydrogen" and "carbohydrate".

Claims 24-63 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Cham et al (Cancer Letters, 5 (1990) 221-225) for the reasons set forth in the Office Action of November 9, 2005.

Applicant's arguments filed February 28, 2006 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Applicant contends that the present invention is based on the discovery that the activity of BEC is deleteriously affected by free sugars (rhamnose) that are a degradation product present in BEC. This argument has not been found persuasive. The claimed methods are directed to "removing essentially all free sugars derived from the glycoalkaloid. There is nothing in the present claims about the free sugars being degradation products of BEC. Note that on page 7 of the specification the term "free sugars" is defined as any sugar which is not bound to an alkaloid. Cham et al disclose administration of BEC alone and administration of BEC in combination of BEC and free rhamnose and shows that the presence of free rhamnose inhibits the activity ob BEC (page 222). Therefore, Cham et al provides motivation for removing free rhamnose from the BEC compositions. The statement on page 7 of the specification that "it has been surprisingly and unexpectedly discovered that the efficacy of a glycoalkalod formulations against cancer, other abnormal cells or other target cells having EEL's can be inhibited by very low amounts of free sugars which may be produced as a result of degradation of the glycoalkaloid" has been considered but has not been found persuasive since the instant claims are not limited to the removal of free sugars which are the result of the degradation of the glycoalkaloid. Further, the instant claims are directed to removing "essentially all free sugars" i.e. the claims encompass low amounts of free sugars still present in the compositions. Also, claims 33-42 and 54-63 are directed to compositions and a method of treating cancer. Applicant has not shown how the amount of free sugars encompassed by the claimed compositions is different from the amount of free sugars in the BEC preparation disclosed by Cham et al. Therefore, the claimed methods and compositions are still deemed prima facie obvious over the Cham et al reference.

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
